

University of the Rockies strives to ensure web-based information is accessible. Digital content developed by the University is created by employing principals of universal design to affirm course material can be accessed by all individuals in our learning community. University of the Rockies is driven to meet the Level AA technical standards as outlined in the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 2.1 \(WCAG\), created by the World Wide Web Consortium (WSC). These standards outline best practices and guidelines for creating accessible learning environments. University class or web-based content that is not fully accessible can be reported to the Accessibility Council at access@rockies.edu or 866.621.0124 ext. 30204.